Boxley—Ashley.

A beautiful wedding took place in old Aquia Episcopal church on the 14th of June, when Miss Frances Moncreux Ashley became the bride of Mr. James G. Boxley, Jr. The bridesmaids were as follows: Misses Pansy Lyon, Lucy Vaughan, M. V. Harris, Myrtle Atkinson, Mary W. Ashby and Virginia B. Ashby. The four ushers, Messrs. F. D. Moncreux, Frank T. West, Jr., Henry S. Todd and R. M. Ashby, entered the church by the side door, followed by the groom and best man, Mr. P. S. Boxley. Three bridesmaids then entered by the three doors, meeting in the center of the church and marching side by side to the altar. The maid of honor, Miss Virginia Moncreux, entered the church by the door opposite the chancel, followed by the bride and her father, Mr. James Ashley.

She was met by the groom at the altar, and the ceremony was impressively conducted by the Rev. E. B. Burwell.

The wedding chorus from Lohengrin was played as the processional, and Mendelssohn's wedding march as the recessional.

The bride, an attractive brunette, was gown in white silk mull over silk and carried white sweet peas. The bridesmaids were in white Persian mull and carried white carnations.

The groom, originally from Louisa county, is a railroad contractor in West Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Boxley left for a trip to several of the Northern cities, taking the best wishes of their many friends and relatives with them.

It mentions a history of the writer's experiences during the war and the fall of Richmond, as among his papers, and also refers to a record of twenty-four years in a Baltimore banking house. On this subject he will say:

"It is said that virtue is sure to prove its own reward; I fail to see it in my case, as robbery and manipulation were substituted for honor at the expense of one who had the courage to denounce such practices, and the cry 'crime and was put into execution. 'Off with his head!'"

The closing lines are: "In the words of Lord Byron, 'The world has not loved me, nor I the world; we therefore, each for each, have parted.'" Colonel Wickliffe died May 15th at his residence, No. 303 North Calvert Street. He was born in Fauquier county, Va., but had lived here forty years. He belonged to the Confederate society.

will of Colonel Andrew Wickliffe, an ex-Confederate, for years employed in the Franklin Bank here. The unique document was filed in the Orphan's Court yesterday. It leaves $500 acres of land in Randolph county, Mo., to the wife and daughter, but also indicates that the title is badly involved.

ALLEGED SWINDLER.
Police Department of Alexandria After A. H. Bardeen.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 17.—The local police department has issued a circular calling upon departments in other cities to aid in the apprehension of a man whose name is given as A. H. Bardeen, and who, it is stated in the circular, is wanted on the charge of felony.

It was stated at the police station today that the charge against Bardeen grew out of a transaction in which the Alexandria National Bank is alleged to have been swindled out of $2,760 in the payment of a draft. The bank officials and the police here are endeavoring to keep the matter from the public.

Bardeen left Alexandria immediately after receiving the money on the draft in question, and his whereabouts since have remained unknown to the police and bank men, although strenuous efforts have been made to find him.

It is said that his home is in Boston. The Alexandria National Bank was recently started here, with Judge Charles B. Nicol as president.

Farmville & Powhatan Railroad.
Editor of The Times-Dispatch:
Sir,—Could not the new owners of the Farmville and Powhatan by associating themselves with the Gould line to the Northern Neck and then extending their line from Powhatan Courthouse via James River to Richmond, would open up a new and quick route between Farmville and Richmond to Baltimore by a ferry across the river to transfer the cars and passengers to a rail connection on the Maryland side.

ARRESTED ON A SERIOUS CHARGE

C. A. Milton Charged With Criminal Assault on a Deaf and Dumb Girl.

HE DENIES THE ALLEGATION

A Spectacle Peddler is Arrested on Similar Charge in Halifax.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
LYNCHBURG, Va., June 17.—Charged with attempting to criminally assault Bessie Shelton, the fifteen-year-old deaf and dumb daughter of Charles A. Shelton, a farmer of Level Run, Pittsylvania county, in this city on Thursday night, Raleigh B. Dawson, a neighbor of the Sheltons, is confined in the Lynchburg jail, having been locked up this morning. The attempt is alleged to have taken place in a boarding house on Ninth Street, Thursday night. The girl, who is small for her age, reached her home yesterday afternoon and told her parents what had taken place.

The father came to Lynchburg at once with the girl and reported the matter to the police. The girl was examined by two prominent physicians, who found her condition to be as she claimed.

A warrant was issued immediately for Dawson, and Officer Harris, of the local police force, accompanied Shelton to Pittsylvania and arrested Dawson, who made no resistance, though he stoutly denied the charge. He says he came here at the solicitation of the girl's father, who was transferring from one train to another, while an investigation shows that the girl, who was accompanied by her deaf mute brother, younger than she, was aboard a local train, the only one that would stop at her home station during the afternoon.

Boy Taken Sick.
The trio went to the boarding house, where a room was secured, and the boy claims he was given some medicine by Dawson, which made him sick. At the boarding house, Dawson stated that the children were his niece and nephew, and that they would occupy the same room.

It was there the assault is alleged to have been attempted. Yesterday morning Dawson left the boarding house, after paying the entire bill, and the mutes were left to find their train unassisted. They left here about 2 o'clock, and their father returned before nightfall and had the warrant issued. The case has stirred the people here, but there is not the slightest thought of violence. The preliminary hearing will probably take place early during the coming week.

The Man Arrested.
A warrant was issued immediately for Dawson, and Officer Harris, of the local police force, accompanied Shelton to Pittsylvania and arrested Dawson, who made no resistance, though he stoutly denied the charge. He says he came here at the solicitation of the girl's father, who was transferring from one train to another, while an investigation shows that the girl, who was accompanied by her deaf mute brother, younger than she, was aboard a local train, the only one that would stop at her home station during the afternoon.

Woman Would Be President.
WASHINGTON, June 17.—Four unwelcome visitors, two men and two women, were arrested at the White House by Secret Service officers Thursday. All belonged to the harmless variety of cranks. When the women declared that she had called to claim her rightful position as President of the United States. She exhibited a paper purporting to be a certificate, signed and attested by the Chief Burgess of Washington, Penn., declaring her elected to the presidency by the votes of the people.
